

I have a dream that no one would litter because littering is bad. Yesterday I saw an old man littering. I asked my mom "PLEASE!! can I talk to that man?" So I got out from the car and I spoke to that man. As soon as I was done I threw out his candy wrapper. That's why I tell you to keep this world clean by not littering.

~~people or~~ The other dream I have is that people, or should I say criminals WOULDN'T steal anything from anyone. For example, when someone is sleeping in their house, and a burglar can break into their house. We won't have to keep away from strange people and should lock our door properly.

Every citizen should obey the laws ~~then you will have to~~ because if you don't obey the laws then you will have to face prison! Like if you speed up, you get ^{in an} accident, you die. If you kill ~~some~~ someone then you should feel bad about their family. One time I saw a taxi it was speeding. I thought, "isn't it a law not to speed up?"

My whole lesson is about not to litter. Every citizen should obey the laws AND people shouldn't steal anything!