

I have a dream that in the future our energy sources will be all natural. I dream that they will be solar, wind, and water powered, because they are the 3 non-polluting energy sources that is easy to find.

Solar energy is easy to get in some places. You can use solar energy in a desert, since the desert's weather is really hot, and sun. It can be the power source of a house in the Sahara desert. Solar power is a non-polluting energy and it is easy to find.

Wind energy is a little harder to find than solar power. You can use wind energy on, in, and near a mountain. Wind power can be used in a home that's on, in, and near a mountain, because the higher you go the colder it gets. Wind power is also a non-polluting source of energy. Wind energy is a good choice of power. It is sometimes easy to get and find, but it is still a good energy source.

Water energy is also a convenient power source to use. Water energy can be used at a water plant in the ocean, since a water plant in the ocean has lots of water. It can also be used at an underwater study base. Also because of the large supply of water, water energy is a non-polluting power source and it is easy to get.

These are all natural power sources and they are non-polluting. Gas-powered machines cause pollution. Solar, wind, and water energy is a better source of power than oil and electricity.
