

I have a dream that people would get better if they are sick, stop hunting animals and stop crime.

When someone is sick, I would ~~would~~ make them feel better. I don't like when people are sick. I would make people feel better by telling them jokes, making them cards and by bringing them chocolates.

The people should stop hunting or else animals will become extinct. Animals shouldn't die because of the sport of hunting.

If someone is about to kill someone I would say to the person to not do so they don't have to be mean anymore. I don't like when people kill each other.

If I can do all of these things I would make the world a better place.
