Lions and lambs

Date: 3/23/04

February ends, March begins. The wind blows like a lions roar. Then it stops, and it gets warmer. It's a lamb jumping carefully on the grass.

March comes in like a lion and out like a lamb. What does that mean? Does that mean a lion comes to NY then a lamb? Or the weather? It might mean that first ~~the~~ the weather is like a lion then a lamb. In winter it's cold and the wind is wild like a lion, then calm like a lamb at the end of march.
